Seligman, Arizona The Birthplace of Historic Route 66

Named for the brothers who helped finance the town's rail line south, visiting Seligman is like taking a step back in time. Visitors from around the world can experience a piece of the Wild West combined with the unique roadside architecture that has stood the test of time and emphasizes Route 66's classic charm.

The small western town was first established when the Prescott & Central Arizona Railroad planned to connect the area to Prescott in 1866. Known at the time as Prescott Junction, folks would watch in marvel as the train ran backwards into town because there wasn't a turn-around in Prescott.

Prescott Junction was in its heyday in 1905. That year the Fred Harvey House was built. The large, two-story, hotel featured a big kitchen, dining area and meeting space, and was the hub of Seligman for many years. Although locals tried to save the historic structure, Harvey House was demolished in 2008.

Seligman's true spot on the map came in 1926 when Route 66 was established and the town became a 'must-stop' spot for cross-country road travelers. Its western appeal and quirky establishments set it apart from other towns. Unfortunately, the popular tourist attraction suffered another setback in 1978 with the opening of I-40 which provided roadies a much faster mode of transportation.

Once again, the good people of this small but mighty town wouldn't be deterred. Residents convinced the State of Arizona to declare the iconic Route 66 a historic highway after it was removed from the official highway map system in 1985. That's why Seligman has the unique distinction of being known as the "Birthplace of Historic Route 66" and just another reason why it's a special place everyone must visit.

Amazing Ambiance

“ The largest shop on Route 66. The atmosphere was absolutely amazing. It's like a paradise .. The aroma of the store; the souvenirs; the great staff going out of their way to help you. You want to be spoiled stop by the four star service and great food (had the chili dog) the best I ever had. The music was awesome. The bar had a variety of choices, and the cleanest restrooms I've ever seen during my travels. ”

Love this place

“ We weren't originally going to stop at Seligman but wow it's definitely worth a stop. The actual town is historically amazing. The RoadRunner is full of sensational gifts and souvenirs for Route 66 (wish we had bought more here as the range is better than other stops). We also had lunch at their cafe at the back of the shop. Delicious wraps and pulled pork sandwich. It's a must visit! ”

Going Back Again

“ We've traveled through Seligman for the last 10 years and low and behold, we've been going through with blindfolds on. How have we missed this place. Well, we won't miss it again. What a relaxing place...the music was spot on, the gifts were priced appropriately and the food was great. We were hooked once we walked in the door. We stayed for a few hours. I want to taste more on the menu and find more special little gifts for us and those special friends and family. Our best find in a while. So glad we stopped in this gem of a place. ”

What a Cool Place!

“ Our Grand Canyon tour stopped here for lunch and we took a wander through this very interesting shop. There is lots of local memorabilia throughout which are quite interesting - almost a tour in itself. If you are looking for souvenirs of the area then you have come to the right place. I got an awesome Route 66 denim shirt. You name it, they probably will have it. The staff is so friendly here you probably will want to delay your departure. What a cool place to visit in Seligman on Old Route 66! ”

DEFINITELY STOP

“ Definitely stop in here if you're in Seligman! The gift shop had a huge selection and every souvenir you could think of. We didn't eat at the restaurant but the food looked pretty good. We did get a beer and sit out on the deck ...The staff was super nice and friendly! ”

Quirky, fascinating and fun!

“ We pulled in to this road stop during our Route 66 trip from Chicago to LA, and I'm so glad we did! Inside there is not only food, including the ever-handy Starbucks, but an impressive collection of merchandise featuring - naturally! - Route 66. And it's not all your usual tacky touristy stuff, either. Being in Arizona the goods include Native American turquoise jewelry and artifacts. The restrooms are clean, the variety of foods they offer is extensive and also very reasonably priced. It was a welcome respite for weary bones! ”

Funplace

“ Seligman is a great place that creates an authentic feeling of a bygone era albeit clearly designed to appeal to tourists every need. RoadRunner houses the most amazing array of gifts including art, jewelry, artifacts and a large number of Route 66 souvenirs as you would expect. There is the widest selection of signs that celebrate Route 66 all priced the same to make everyone's life easy ... the difficult part is choosing which one appeals to your taste best. ”
